

Greetings quilty friends,

I see today it's raining again! We are having a very wet month so far. My daffodils are very confused and have been blooming now for a couple of weeks. Is this the beginning of spring already? Punxsutawney Phil told us there would not be another 6 weeks of winter. We have to believe him. Right?

To start the sewing year off right I am recommending we all make a list of UFOs. (unfinished projects) We all need to be thinking of quilts to go in the upcoming show. So I found a great project sheet to print out and help me keep track of my UFO. The site is called Patchwork and Poodles and on her menu there is Freebies. The Project Tracker is a free printable. Let's finish some of those quilts that are 50% done and get them in the show!!

Along those lines our February speaker, Gretchen Hudocha, is going to help us get our quilting areas all organized. Our meeting on Tuesday, February 18th will be at the Civic Center.

I hope to see you all then,

and sew on,

Donna Cusick (EVQG President)

Hi Everyone,

This month we will enjoy the company of Gretchen Hadocha, she will be giving a lecture on getting organized in our sewing room or anywhere you need to put things in their right place.

Also, we will have our quilting 101 class on the 22nd with Dora Dryden, so if you are new to quilting this may be the class for you. If you are interested you can contact Jan Shepherd @ 770-529-7667 or see her at the next meeting.

Check our (Etowah Valley Facebook page....) because we are taking a survey, on who you would like to see in the year 2021... I hope you will respond so we can find the best people for our meetings next year.

You can always contact anyone on our programs committee as well:

Kristie Michalowski

Michelle Wyman

Emily Gail Wyett

Heather Sanders

From ideas or if you would be interested in teaching a class please contact:

Jan Shepherd

Cynthia O'Connor

Thanks so much, Rita Jensen
